Hey Phil,

I provided links to the respective staff pages. I hope that's helpful.

Gunnar Knapp, PhD, is a fisheries economist with extensive experience in AK, including Bristol Bay.

Toby Schwörer, MS, is a natural resource economist.
http://www.iser.uaa.alaska.edu/profiles/staff/toby\_schworer.html

Marie Lowe, PhD, is an anthropologist. Much of her work focuses on the socioeconomics of fishing communities, and she has recently wrote a (yet to be released) report on socioeconomics of the Bristol Bay region. We've been working with Gunnar and Toby on the economic end of the project. Marie was contacted by NatureServe to conduct the outreach.

Hi Dan,
Palmer has been talking with Jeff and Mike at ORD about the possibility of a more prominent role as the overseers of the science. They asked for a list of the team members and their expertise. I think I can write something up for everyone except the ISER folks. Can you send me a one line bio of them (expertise and degree)?
